

Writing for Publication: Everything You Need To Know To Become a Writer

Three-day seminar with Professor Noah Charney

While most writing courses teach you how to write better, there are very few courses anywhere that teach the practical side of writing as a profession. This workshop will teach students how books are published, how to write a winning book proposal, how to get a literary agent, how to engage an editor and win an article commission for a newspaper or magazine, and how to publicize your book when it comes out. If you have ever dreamed of writing and publishing, either as a career or as a sideline, this workshop will teach you everything you need to get started. The workshop is divided into three related classes, one on fiction, one on non-fiction books, and one on journalism and articles. The tricks of the trade will be taught by your professor, dr. Noah Charney, a best-selling writer of fiction and non-fiction, and award-winning columnist.

Dr. Charney, an American living in Slovenia, consults to Mladinska Knjiga, Beletrina, and Založba Miš, and has worked with many Slovene authors, including Vlado Kreslin, Luka Novak, Branko Djurić, Gabriela Babnik, Goran Vojnović, Božidar Novak, Janja Vidmar and Jože Pirjevec. If you are interested in writing books or journalism, in translating, or in publishing fiction, non-fiction, academic work or articles in English, this workshop will teach you what you need to get published and make money in the world of writing.

Learn more about dr. Charney's work by visiting www.noahcharney.com. You can read his weekly column in The Daily Beast, with 12 million monthly readers, in which he interviews fellow authors about the writing life and tricks of the trade. Dr. Charney is author of the international best-selling novel (also a best-seller in the Slovenian edition), The Art Thief, as well as non-fiction books, including the best-selling Stealing the Mystic Lamb. He writes regularly for The Guardian, Esquire, CNN, The LA Times, The Daily Beast, AirBeletrina, and many other publications.